What did Shaffer tell guards.
Talk about carburetors
Of course we don't expect Shaffer
to be liable for it!
Said the boys would take carburetor
off + take to Harpers
Smiths Sun took it. (Sues)
Shaffer heard of this Monday.
Check Smith it was not right
when we received it — line
had not been cleaned.
Ran tubes then extra
gas pan Faulks grants it.
Faults weren't drained by Harper.
Worked Weds. with clean carburetor

Jade carvings from Nebaj, Kixpek, Chama, and probably other sites in the El Quiché - Alta Vera Paz portion of the Atlantic Slope, Guatemala
Early and Late Classic Period (200 - 900 AD ?)

Jade was the most highly valued material among the Maya & other Meso-american peoples. A good source of jade was found recently in the Montagua Valley. The finest carved jades come from Nebaj & Pusilhá.

Univ Museum, Philadelphia

Jade from Piedras Negras, Guatemala
Southern Lowlands, (Late Classic ca 700 AD)
from Burial 5, the most elaborately stocked tomb at this site on the Usumacinta River. They were possessions of the priest buried in his vaulted tomb. Comparable jades are rarely found in lowland excavations

"New extinct Swan in New Zealand" - At a meeting of the Philosph. Instit of Canterbury N.Z., on Oct. 3, 1889, Mr. H.O. Forbe, Director of the Canterbury Mus, Christchurch described an extinct sp. of Swan from osteological remains which he has discovered while excavating a cave recently exposed at Sumner, on the estuary of the Heathcote & Avon Rivers, a few miles distant from Christchurch.

"The bones discovered consisted of three complete coracoids & the fore. & dist. portions of the humeruses. They differ very little from those of Chenopis atrata of Australia, except in their greater size. The new species has been named Chenopis sumnerensis. The Sumner Cave was stated to have been closed before the introd. of Chenopis atrata into NZ. The extension of the Swans to NZ in a former epoch was thus for a very interesting fact in ornithology.
